Dear [REDACTED]

STATINTL

I would like to express in writing the thanks that I extended to you after your recent lecture to my class in Geography.230, Soviet Union. Your knowledge of the field of Soviet agriculture came through strongly, and I appreciate the fact that, as an old teacher yourself, you knew just the right level at which to pitch your presentation to our students here at George Mason. We all learned a lot and we thank you. It is gratifying that government geographers are willing to take the time to share their expertise with students in local universities.

Sincerely,

Alice C. Andrews

MEMORANDUM FOR: Associate Deputy Director for Intelligence

SUBJECT : Approval for Outside Lecture

1. I request permission to present a lecture on Soviet Agriculture to a geography class at George Mason University, Fairfax, Virginia, on 28 October 1976.

2. Dr. Alice Andrews, Professor in the Department of Geography, has invited me to speak to the students of the "Geography of the USSR" course. Dr. Andrews is aware of my CIA affiliation and my participation in the OGCR produced "USSR Agriculture Atlas."

3. I plan to cover the principal geographic factors (climate, soils, and terrain) characteristic of the USSR and relate their influence on Soviet agricultural practices, crop distribution, yields, and production. All aspects of the lecture will be unclassified and opinions will be identified as my personal views.

4. I am an overt employee, and will be identified as a CIA employee during the introduction.
